

MIDDLEBURY, OCT. 11, 1854.

The County Fair.

Our County Fair, on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, was, as a whole, decidedly the best that has yet been held by the Society. The storm on Tuesday and Wednesday of course had its effect in preventing so complete and various an exhibition as would otherwise have been made, yet in the important departments of Horses and Sheep, the show was one of which the county may justly be proud. We believe it could be equalled in three branches by few counties in the United States. There were also very fine Cattle, some good Swine, excellent products of the Dairy, ingenious needle and fancy work, and several beautiful paintings and drawings. Fruits, Farm Implements, and mechanical work of a high order were exhibited, to about the usual amount.

On Thursday, the number of people in attendance was large; the weather clear and bracing; and the mud had nearly disappeared. It was a day of much interest throughout. We have never, unless at the late State Fair, seen so fine a display of Horses as were on the course during Wednesday forenoon. The several varieties of breeds were well represented—the Black Hawks of course most numerous, and what added greatly to the gratification and enthusiasm of the spectators, the original Black Hawk, sire of all the noble race, was among the number, driven by David Hill, Esq., the champion of improvement in this leading branch of the Vermont agricultural interest. Our limits, of course, do not permit us to attempt an enumeration of the noble animals that were on the ground, of this and other stocks, nor does the list of premiums embrace a tithe of their number. It is equally impossible to do anything like justice to the rich show of Sheep, which were a great point of attraction to visitors, on both days of the Fair.

In the afternoon of Thursday, at 2 o'clock, Prof. J. A. Nash, of Amherst, Mass., was introduced to a numerous audience, and proceeded to deliver an address of rare interest and of solid value. Its style was clear and impressive, and its delivery forcible and attractive, holding the large audience, of both sexes, though nearly all were obliged to remain standing—in closest attention for more than an hour. The strong and hearty "aye" with which a resolution tendering their thanks to the orator and requesting a copy of his address for publication, were adopted, truly expressed their appreciation of his merits.

Mr. Nash said that he found himself, as he presumed many others had, in an unpleasant predicament—he had written an address, expecting to read it somewhere in doors; but the Society had rightly decided to have the speaking outdoors, where more could hear it, in the presence of the Sheep and the fine Cattle and the beautiful Horses. This was as it should be. He was glad of it; for though he could not read an address here in the wind, he could speak from the inspiration of the place. We had some proof that Addison County was a famous place to grow sheep and horses; but what pleased him more, he saw before him conclusive evidence that it could produce men, strong, healthy, sober-minded men, and women to match. If there had been rowdiness and intemperance here those two days, others might have seen it, he had not.

His subject was British Agriculture, how far to be avoided and how far to be copied by American farmers.

Mr. Nash said, there was probably 3500 million dollars worth of gold in the whole world. He believed that the annual value of British agriculture was one third, and that of American on half that amount.

Should British farmers study American agriculture, with a view to improve their own, they might learn some thing of us, but they seem on the whole in the advance of us, and we might learn more of them. Some of their procedures should be avoided by us, because wrong in themselves, others should be avoided, because, though right in their circumstances, they would be wrong in ours, and very many of their usages are worthy of our imitation, as being founded on correct principles, and so being right every where.

Mr. Nash would not dwell on the positions and social relations of agriculture. For one set of men to own the land, and another to direct its cultivation, and another to cultivate it as bid, worked well for agriculture in that kingdom, but long might it be before such a system should find place among us.

On the management of soils, manures and crops, and on the importance of breeding animals of excellent qualities Mr. Nash dwelt at considerable length, and with much discrimination, showing how the American farmer may learn from the English, without danger of being misled, on account of differences of soil and climate. We would report further from this address, were it not that a copy has been asked for the press, and that it will be published early.

The address having been concluded, the Secretary announced, as reported by the several committees, the following list of varieties of Potatoes—one of them imported from Ireland 3 years since, 1 00.

The Top Onions—of which both seed and fruit were shown at our late Fair by Mr. Morgan of Bristol—appear to have succeeded remarkably well this year under the management Mr. M. has already detailed in our paper. We advise our friends to purchase some of the seeds and give them a trial for another year.

The immense mammoth squashes, exhibited at the Fair by J. McKee of Bristol, were a wonder to everybody who saw them. The smallest of them all (left in our custody) weighs 97 lbs. Persons wishing seeds, by sending Mr. McKee 25 cts. by mail or otherwise, will be furnished with some of the Squash seeds and some of the large Mexican Melon seeds.

The Middlebury Band furnished excellent music for the Fair, on Wednesday and Thursday, and deserved the high praise, every one was disposed to give them.

Fire on a Train.
On Saturday forenoon last, as the down freight train on the Rutland and Burlington Railroad, had passed some little distance beyond Gasset's Station, one of the cars was discovered to be on fire. As there was no chance of extinguishing the flames on the spot, the engineer made the best possible speed for Chester, the car being in a blaze on his arrival there. It was of course at once detached from the train, but too late to put out the fire, or to save any great portion of the freight.

The car was well loaded with valuable articles, among which were some eighty large casks of butter; quite a quantity of leather; several packages of eggs; potatoes; castings; and boxes of books and papers, evidently belonging to some private library. The melted butter flowed freely on the track, and settled around in pools. The books were many of them thoroughly greased and singed, and others consumed, leaving a wreck which the owner would hardly recognize. The leather and other articles were partly saved. The loss is a serious one. The fire is supposed to have caught from the locomotive.

The North American Review.
No periodical in the country, with which we are acquainted, in any measure sustains the character of a high-toned, elaborate and attractive literary journal, like the North American Review. It is a work that no person who would acquaint himself with the literature of the present, as well as of the past, can well dispense with. More than ever has this become true under its present able management, which has given the North American a position and character unsurpassed at any former period of its existence, though it has numbered among its editors some of the most accomplished scholars and men of letters our country has produced.

The number for October is received, and presents a most interesting table of contents. Its brilliant series of papers will afford, to those readers who have become accustomed to its pages, more delight than the last number to the confirmed novel-reader. The several articles are:

I. Edward Young. II. Burr's Conspiracy. III. The Jurisprudence of Insanity. IV. Bibliopica. V. De Maistre and Romanism. VI. Children of the Perishing and dangerous classes. VII. Sunny memories of Foreign Lands. VIII. The Smithsonian Institution. IX. The Reciprocity Treaty. X. Life of Dewitt Clinton. XI. The Sophisms of Free Trade. XII. Critical Notices. Published by Crosby, Nichols & Co., Boston—85 a year.

The Horse Show.—The Rutland and Vermont Valley Roads propose to carry the horses for exhibition and necessary attendants, free, to and from Brattleboro. Early notice at the several stations is desired, that cars may be in readiness to take stock to the Fair.

The annual New England Horse Exhibition will be the means of making known more extensively the horses of Addison County, and will enhance the value of the stock in this quarter many thousands of dollars, if they are well represented in the exhibition, as reports of the show will be published.

At the New England Horse Show, an elegant gold watch will be presented to the owner of the stallion of three years old or under, that makes the best time—distance half mile.

One of the chief attractions of the Poultry department, at our Fair, was some beautiful Bantams, also, Cochins crossed with Chittagongs, exhibited by Dr. N. Harris of this place. Any person who seeks for a better lot of fowls will be much more likely to fail than to succeed.

Mrs. Drew, the Queen of writers, we understand, is again to pay our town a visit, and open a Writing Academy. Editors and printers, of all others, should rejoice at any attempt to improve the bibliography of the community—Mrs. Drew's specimens exhibited at our County Fair are all the recommendation she will need to insure a full attendance at her school.

William Mason.—This distinguished pianist gave his first public concert in this country, at the Tremont Boston, on Tuesday evening. He had a fine audience, and his performance was greeted with the utmost enthusiasm. Mr. Mason is a Bostonian—a son of Lowell Mason. He is young, but by patient and sedulous study, under the best German masters, has successfully cultivated a native talent for music, until he stands second to no one in this country, as a performer upon his favorite instrument.

ACCIDENT.—We learn that on Saturday last, Mrs. E. D. Barber and daughter, Miss Helen Barber, while driving from West Salisbury depot to Lake Dunmore, were thrown from the wagon, in consequence of the wheel coming in contact with a large stone, and that Mrs. Barber was seriously, though we are happy to state, not fatally, hurt. Miss Barber escaped with slight injury.—Brandon Post, 5th inst.

CORRECTION.—The Woodstock Age makes the following correction: We were sorry to see in a democratic paper in this State, the week before last, the statement that Merritt Clark is opposed to the Nebraska bill. This of course is an error, and such a statement should not be made even for the pitiable excuse of securing a few abolition votes.

Foreign News.
By the Canada, which arrived at New York on Friday, we have European news to the 23d ult. The Arcetie, which sailed from Liverpool three days previous, with 200 passengers, had not arrived, at last accounts, nor had she been heard from. Fears are entertained for her safety.

The Liverpool Cotton market continues dull. Breadstuffs are buoyant. THE WAR.—The Crimea expedition has landed the allied force amounting to over 58,000 men, who are to be recruited by 14,000 more.

GREAT BRITAIN.—It is rumored that Emperor Napoleon is to visit England shortly. A most diabolical outrage had been perpetrated in Ireland. About 900 inhabitants of Enniskill and neighborhood, including the Earl of Enniskillan, proceeded by railroad to Derry and had a grand Protestant and Orange celebration. As they were returning the train came in contact with a large fragment of rock placed upon the rails near an embankment, throwing the train, instantly killing the stoker, and more or less wounding numerous others, including Lord Enniskillan.

It is stated to have been a deeply laid popish conspiracy, and suspicion of it was entertained; so unusual precautions were taken, and the train was going at a very slow rate at the time.

The instructions issued to the troops at Varna at the moment of their departure have been published, and display evidence of the most minute care and forethought, and indicate that the intention is to make an immediate attack upon Sebastopol.

A dispatch dated Varna, 22d, says: From Russian sources it had been ascertained that the Russians did not oppose the landing of the allies, because their entire force in the Crimea numbers only 88,000 men, besides the garrison at Sebastopol.

The Russians have 30,000 men and 48 guns upon the heights from Crimea and Sebastopol, and will defend these heights to the utmost. The allies march on Sebastopol by the way of Simperopol.

The first encounter was expected to take place on the 21st or 22d, unless the Russians advanced from their positions to meet the allies. Ships with troops were off the fortress of Kinburn and the island of Tendr Olesca, doubtless with the view of intercepting Russian re-enforcements.

The English are said to have captured a Russian express steamer, with important dispatches, off Sebastopol. SPAIN.—Madrid remains quiet. The Nacion says large sums of money are distributed among the people to keep up a state of agitation and insinuates that Mr. Soule has a hand in the distribution—calling on him to deny the charge, if innocent.

MICHIGAN.—The Detroit Tribune says that Mr. Howard, the Whig and Anti-Nebraska candidate for Congress from that district, will be elected by such a majority as never before was given to the candidate of any party in the district.

Mr. Stuart, it adds, for his truckling subservience to the South, and his base betrayal of the rights of his constituents, on the slavery question, will receive such a rebuke as has just been administered to some of his fellow traitors in Maine and other States. The Locofoco pro-slavery State ticket will receive an almost equally severe rebuke at the hands of the people of the State. The whole Independent ticket will be elected by a majority varying from five to ten thousand.

The official term of Governor Brigham Young, of Utah Territory, expired on Friday, the 29th of September. His successor has not been agreed upon, and the appointment of one has been found a matter of considerable difficulty. Young will not be re-appointed, but it is believed that no man, not a Mormon could govern that lawless and impious community, without the material aid of two well appointed regiments. The Secretary of the Territory, A. W. Babitt, formerly delegate in Congress, will direct affairs until the further action of the President.

The St. Louis Democrat says that the Hon. Edward Bates, of that city, is opposed to the Nebraska Bill. He is named for U. S. Senator. Mr. Bates is one of the purest, and ablest men in the Union, and his election to the U. S. Senate would do honor to Missouri and to the West. His opposition to the Kansas-Nebraska bill of Douglas is well known, and objections to the measure were very ably set forth in a communications published in the St. Louis Republican some months ago.—Buffalo Com. Advertiser.

A few days since, says the Albany State Register, the tusks of a Mastodon, of enormous size, were discovered protruding from the inclined side of a marshy declivity, a few miles from the city of Pookesville. Measures were immediately taken to excavation, which is prosecuted under the direction of Professor Morse, has proceeded as far as the head and shoulders of the mammoth. The bones are partially petrified, as far as the examination has extended, and this promises the recovery of the entire skeleton in a more perfect state than any yet discovered.

DUTCH PUDDING.—Cut a round piece out of the bottom of a loaf and put that and the piece that was cut out into a quart of new milk in the evening, and let it stand all night. If the milk is all soaked up, add some more. Put the piece in the bottom again, tie the loaf up in a cloth and boil an hour. Eat with sauce.
